

Are You Making the Most of Your Phone System?

Audio Marketing > Ideally no-one would put callers on-hold, but it is a fact of life: the on-hold and transfer buttons are used more than any other feature of business phone systems.

Are you maximising this selling and customer care opportunity?

We can turn this dull waiting time into valuable marketing time, and really get it working for you. We enhance your company's marketing efforts with music and audio marketing programmes which are played to callers on-hold or in-queue.

Our range of high-tech digital announcers are compatible with all modern business telephone systems and our leading edge studios link with our announcers to provide regular programme updates, in line with your other marketing initiatives.

We provide a full business audio service: from initial marketing and content advice and creative script writing, through to recording using a wide range of music and voiceover styles, including all UK accents and languages, and most foreign languages.

The Benefits

Increase profits and customer loyalty

- > Cross-sell products and services to existing customers - how many callers buy all the things they could from you?
- > Announce promotions, sales and offers
- > Tell callers about new services & launches
- > Inform and educate callers about your business

Be more professional

- > Sound more professional and caring
- > Improve brand and product awareness
- > Sound more innovative than your competitors
- > Be more caring – Thank callers for their business
- > Announce your website address and drive up hits

What Next? – Call us for a free Audio Audit to hear how audio can build your brand and maximise sales, or ask us for examples of other businesses in your industry on 01386 883802 or email us on sales@quintech.co.uk